

As the interior signage industry has grown and changed, so has our popular interior signage manual. The latest edition is updated and reorganized to better assist you in every aspect of manufacturing or specifying great-looking interior signage.

“How to Create Great-Looking Interior Signage”

Accent Signage Systems, Inc. has created this easy-to-use sign manual to help sign shops create and market their ability to produce interior signage. This manual includes step-by-step instructions and tutorials on every stage of the signage process: starting with the newly updated 2010 ADA rules and regulations, wayfinding, design, fabrication, installation, bid specifications, marketing strategies, and more. We have a section on digital imaging and how it is changing the face of interior signage. We've included more images and color pages to better highlight the amazing signage now possible through advances in machines and technology.

This manual is a great guide for anyone who designs, specifies or fabricates interior signs: architects, building owners and facility managers, as well as sign shop owners, fabricators and sales consultants.

The manual contains specific “how-to” information for production of interior signs using the routed method of fabrication and the Raster® Method of Braille. Included is a CD-ROM that contains sign layouts of the most commonly used interior signs and a host of other useful tools.

We believe this manual will provide you with the most comprehensive collection of tips, guidelines and suggestions available for creating signs that are both attractive and meet the latest government guidelines.
